DIETITIAN'S CORNER

Natalie Menza
Corporate Dietitian

November is American Diabetes Month

If you've recently been diagnosed with diabetes, you're probably wondering just what you should and shouldn't eat. You're not alone. So while it's best to consult your doctor or registered dietitian for specific suggestions, here are some general guidelines to get you started.

Fill the Fridge

The best way to eat healthy is to fill your fridge with healthy options. Next, choose your favorite lean meats, poultry and seafood. Then, choose fresh lean meats and skin from poultry. Choose whole grains over refined white grains, and look up on labels for fat free dairy products. Limit sugary drinks such as sodas and fruit juices.

Stock the Pantry

Package items offer great convenience, however, beware of hidden sugars, fats and sodium. Read food labels and ingredient panels to help spot healthy choices.

Consider Cooking Methods

Choose liquid fats such as canola and olive oil for cooking rather than solid fats that can be high in saturated and trans fat. Choose healthy cooking methods such as grilling, steaming, baking, broiling and stir-frying.

Snack Smart

Snacking is an important component of a diabetes meal plan. Snacking helps maintain blood sugar (glucose) levels throughout the day. Here are a few healthy ideas:

- Fresh fruits, raw vegetables with low fat dips, whole grain pretzels, whole grain cereal, low fat popcorn, low fat yogurt, and whole grain crackers with low fat cheese.

The month, ShopRite is supporting American Diabetes Month by helping show you how easy, fun and delicious healthy living can be.

For more information, visit the health and wellness section of ShopRite.com. To request a copy of our "Living with Diabetes" brochure, call us at 1-800-ShopRite (346-7740).
